

Some doubts as to whether the Russian people can successfully run their own government. Certainly, the Hebrews cannot hope to gain freedom under a liberal Russian government unless they fight for it just as the liberals are fighting the autocracy for their own liberty."

Odessa Conditions Now More Quiet

ODESSA, Russia, Nov. 6.—Everything is quiet in the city today as this writing. The shops are opening and business is being renewed. The city is fast assuming its normal aspect.

Helsingfors Strike Comes to an End

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Nov. 6.—The general strike which has been in progress here came to an end today. The city is quiet and is assuming its normal aspect.

Simon Wolf Appeals For Russian Hebrews

Simon Wolf, of this city, president of the B'nai B'rith, has addressed a letter to Secretary of State Root reciting the extent of the terrible character of the massacres of Hebrews in Russia, and appealing to him, if possible, to find some way by which the influence of the United States might be brought to bear upon the Russian government to stop further outrages against these innocent people, and to repair some of the damage that has been wrought.

Mr. Wolf admits that he can see no way in international law by which the United States can interfere, but he believes that public opinion may be so aroused in this country as to at least induce the charitably disposed to contribute for the relief of the families of the killed and the support of the wounded.

Government Promises To Carry Out Reforms

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 6.—An official statement issued today in regard to the recent disorders throughout the country declares that the disturbances were due to the display of bitter feelings by various sections of the population toward one another which were caused by the manifesto of October 17.

The only means of combating the disturbances lies in all the people becoming thoroughly convinced that reforms will be inflexibly carried out as promised, and that no efforts of the enemies of reform will be allowed to prevent this accomplishment.

The statement recommends moderation on the part of the people, and co-operation in the work of pacifying the country. The government declares that it reckons on the support of the peaceably inclined and thoughtful majority of the population, to whom the future development of Russia on a basis of civil liberty and territorial integrity is dear.

The government particularly counts upon the support of the press, which must understand in the present situation that a free and honest expression of the forces of the whole nation is necessary.

Former Minister Straus Appeals to President

Oscar Straus, former United States minister to Turkey, and a leading Hebrew of the country, called upon the President this morning to consult with him as to whether there was any possibility of action which would result in a mitigation of the horrors connected with the massacre of the Hebrews in Russia. The President stated that, of course, he had been watching with the deepest concern the reports of these massacres; that he had been appealed to within the last few weeks to try to take some action, not only on behalf of the Israelites in Russia, but on behalf of the Armenians, Poles, and Finns.

The result of the President's inquiries coincide with statements contained in a cable from M. Witte to Jacob H. Schiff, shown to the President by Mr. Straus, as follows:

"The government is horrified at these outrages. You can find it in the papers, and do not sympathize with such savage outbreaks. All I can do to stop the disorders, is done, but as the country is in such excited state, the local authorities are often powerless."

In the conditions of social disorder which actually exist in Russia, the President does not see that any action can be taken by this Government at present which will be of any benefit to the unfortunate sufferers, for whom he feels such keen sympathy.

Secretary Root, before the issuance of the statement, and among other things it is quite likely that he talked over the question of the persecution of the Hebrews with the Chief Executive.

FINAL REPORT ON DISTRICT'S BUSINESS METHODS

The committee of three, appointed in August, 1903, by the District Commissioners to report on the business methods employed in the different branches of the District government, with a view of their improvement, submitted to the Commissioners today its supplementary and final report. The members of the committee are Dr. W. C. Woodward, health officer; J. R. Garrison, auditor; and Major R. D. Starnes, chief of property, and Dr. William Tindall, recorder.

The Commissioners will take up this supplementary report and consider it in connection with the comments, and decide what shall be done in each case. Some changes can be made by Commissioners' orders and legislation by Congress.

Y. M. C. A. PUSHES WORK FROM ITS NEW HOME

Safe, strong environments was the theme of a lecture by Dr. Lloyd B. Wright, of the Covode House, the boys' club of Allegheny, Pa., in the boys' building of the Y. M. C. A., yesterday afternoon.

The opening of the theater meetings at the Belasco will be announced next Sunday, with the Rev. A. C. Peck, of Denver, as the speaker.

In the banquet of the new building, this evening, will be held an informal supper to the campaign committee, given by the secretaries.

WASHINGTON GIRL WHO WILL WED MEMBER OF YALE LAW FACULTY

MISS MARIAN GALLAUDET,
Whose Marriage to John W. Edgerton Will Take Place Shortly.

GALLAUDE WEDDING INTERESTS SOCIETY

Washington Girl Who Will Marry John W. Edgerton in Near Future Popular in Many Cities—Her Fiance
Secretary of Yale Law School.

Washington society is much interested in the coming marriage of Miss Marian Gallaudet and John W. Edgerton.

Miss Gallaudet is among the best-known and most popular girls in Washington society, and is noted here and in other cities for her beauty. She is the daughter of President Edward M. Gallaudet, of the Kendall Green college, and has been conspicuous in social affairs since her debut.

Mr. Edgerton is secretary of the Yale law school, and is quite as popular in club and social circles as his bride-to-be. No date for the marriage has been set, but it is believed it will be an event of the near future.

George Trammell, who was burned about the head and body in the explosion at the electric light plant last week.

He has been lingering between life and death since Wednesday. He has been sinking since Saturday night, and the end is expected momentarily.

His death will be the third fatality resulting from the accident. For a time it was expected that Trammell would recover, but complications set in. When the news of his critical condition was sent to the Potomac Electric Power Company this morning the officials were surprised and grieved.

George Trammell is a widower, and lived with his brother's family at 1123 Conduit road.

The condition of his brother, William Trammell, was reported much better this morning. He was able to sit up for a short time yesterday afternoon.

This morning G. W. Hardy, the colored stoker, has not improved, and his condition is critical, but not necessarily so. When the patients were first taken to the hospital, Hardy was supposed to be the most serious, but since then he has steadily improved.

Carelessness. Mrs. White claims the accident was due to defective pipes and careless management. She says the company had not even returned the balance of her husband's salary.

The little money she says she obtained from the Knights of Pythias, of which White was a member, was scarcely sufficient to pay for the funeral. From the Railway Relief Association Mrs. White will receive about $500.

Demand Impossible. She says the officials of that association, as well as those of the Electric Light Company, demand that the widow appear in person with her requests, but because of her physical condition this is impossible.

Mrs. White said today: "I had a premonition of the catastrophe, and knew that sooner or later the blow would fall, and my husband knew it, too. Many times he has told me that if the company did not place some one in charge who understood the work the plant and everything in it would be blown to atoms some day."

Boilers Overworked. "He said that often the boilers were forced to carry increased pressure, and that they could not stand it."

"My son is working manfully, and he is doing everything in his power to take the place that the hand of the reaper has made vacant. We have not made any preparations for moving as yet, but we cannot stay here."

George Trammell's Death
Now Matter of Minutes
The doctors at the Emergency Hospital have given up all hope of the recovery.

HOWARD CUT FIRST, SAY HUB POLICE

Was Original Operator on Suit Case Victim.

GRAND JURY TAKES UP CASE

Prompt Indictments Expected—Girl's
Relatives Asked to Identify Head.
Still Seek Mrs. Dean.

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—The finding of the head of Susan Agnes Geary, the little dancer who was the victim of the "suit case" crime, has furnished the authorities with the last bit of evidence needed to secure the indictment of the prisoners under arrest. It is expected that Suffolk grand jury, which met today, will return indictments promptly.

The recovery of the head is of the greatest value to the prosecution of the charges against Louis W. Crawford, William E. Howard, and Dr. Percy D. McLeod. With this, the Government will be able to show positively that the dismembered body was that of Susan Geary. Possession of the head also makes the confessions of Crawford and Howard stronger, since their statements have been corroborated in vital points.

Have "Doctor." It is announced positively that the police are now seeking no one other than Mrs. Mary Dean, nurse and the occupant of the house at 88 Winthrop street, where Miss Geary died.

Medical Examiner Harris examined the head today. A member of the family of the girl has been called upon to identify it, although it is easily recognizable as the original of the photograph of Miss Geary, now in the hands of the police.

Only Mrs. Dean Free. William E. Crawford, it is now asserted, is the mysterious "doctor" in the case. He, the police allege, is the operator, the man who performed the operation for which Susan Geary sought the services of Mrs. Dr. Bishop.

Mr. Edgerton is secretary of the Yale law school, and is quite as popular in club and social circles as his bride-to-be. No date for the marriage has been set, but it is believed it will be an event of the near future.

Will Act Quickly. Immediately indictments are returned by the grand jury application will be made to Governor Dwyer for requisition papers requesting for W. E. Howard and Louis W. Crawford, now in New York. The documents will be taken to Albany by Chief Inspector Watts. It is expected that by Thursday the two prisoners will be back in Boston.

Girl's Head Is Found On Bottom of Harbor

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—The formal identification of the head found in a satchel in Boston harbor as that of Susan A. Geary, of the "Shepherd King" company, and the arrangement of Morris Nathan, the girl's fiance, are today's events in the now famous "suit case" mystery.

The satchel containing the head, and weighted with shot, was found just outside of the south slip on the east Boston side of the North Ferry, where Louis W. Crawford and William Howard said they had thrown it overboard.

The head was in a fair state of preservation. It was wrapped in a piece of the girl's black skirt and the satchel was that of Miss Geary.

Identified by Teeth. The police recognized the head from the picture of Miss Geary and the good fillings in the teeth corresponding with the description given by Miss Geary's mother. The head shows that the decapitation was done by a person skilled in surgery. It was taken to a Howard street undertaker.

Dredgers had been combing the path of the East Boston ferryboats for three days in search of this last piece of evidence to make positive the girl's identification.

Lay on Bottom. The head was recovered by a diver about 4:30 p. m. Sunday, after hours of labor. He found it lying upon the bottom. The diver was working from a power dory independent of the two police boats using grappling hooks.

Had those who disposed of the body observed the same precaution in weighting the suit cases in which the torso and limbs were thrown into the sea the crime might never have been discovered.

Hunt for Mrs. Dean. The police today continued the search for Mary S. Dean, who is said to have been the nurse in charge at the Tremont Street Hospital when Miss Geary was there.

ALUMNI OF PRINCETON TO CONSIDER CUP AWARD
The Princeton Alumni Club, of Washington, will hold its second monthly smoker in the University Club next Friday evening at 8 o'clock. President Wilson was compelled to decline an invitation to attend because of other engagements.

The award of the Princeton football cup will come up for discussion, and the project of taking a Washington team to Princeton next spring to meet the Princeton freshmen in a baseball game will also be considered.

A full set of these Sibley natural looking teeth guaranteed for ten years.

Don't miss this chance, it will only last a short while.

ADAMLESS EDEN PLANS UNDER WAY

Hotel for Women to Be Called Dolly Madison.

BUSINESS MEN INTERESTED

Applications for Rooms Already Received—Establishment Will Be Made Home-like.

Plans are well underway for the establishment in Washington of a hotel for the exclusive accommodation of women.

The development of these plans have been in the hands of the Department Women's Hotel Association, an organization formed recently for this specific purpose and from the enthusiasm displayed and the hearty support extended from local business men it is probable the hotel will be a fact before many months have passed.

It is the purpose of those in charge of the venture to establish and maintain a hotel on similar lines with the famous Martha Washington Hotel, in New York, one of the most successful hotels in the country and for the benefit of transient as well as resident New York women.

The Dolly Madison. The Washington hotel will be called the Dolly Madison and will be for the accommodation not only of Government department women who are now compelled to live in boarding houses, but for working women generally.

No apartments have been leased as yet, but the committee in charge has several houses in view and it is understood that one will be rented and furnished within a short time. Applications have already been made for rooms, and it only remains for the house to be engaged and furnished when the new hotel will be established.

A prominent woman living in Georgetown has offered to furnish the parlors and women clerks in the Treasury will provide furniture and books for the library. Many donations of furniture and decorations have been promised the committee and a number of the fund by A. Lisner.

To Raise Funds. A series of entertainments has been planned for the purpose of raising the necessary funds for equipping the house. The first of these was a progressive euchre party held last Wednesday evening in Carroll Institute when more than 200 persons played cards. A neat sum was realized through this entertainment and others will be given in the near future.

Washington women who work in the various departments have come to realize that some such steps were necessary. There are a number of young women who come here from other cities and are compelled to live in strange boarding houses among people whom they do not know and from whom they cannot expect certain attentions which tend to make them feel at home. Frequently a girl is ill and is forced to depend upon the most meager attention and it is in order to avert such conditions that the hotel plan was broached.

E. VOIGT BUYS HOME FROM SAUTER ESTATE

E. Voigt has purchased from the Sauter estate the ten-room residence, 909 Q street northwest, which he will remodel and improve. The house is three stories in height and built of brick. It faces both Rhode Island avenue and Q street, and is one of the prettiest homes of the section. The sale was closed by Mr. Harrison, of Harrison & Browning, who have also sold to Joseph Schiffman a row of eight small dwelling houses on First street, near I street southwest. The latter property was owned by P. Brennan, and Mr. Schiffman bought it as an investment.

Harrison & Browning report that they have received a deposit for a purchase of a down-town business property, the sale of which is to be completed this week.

NEW PUBLIC PRINTER CALLS ON PRESIDENT

Charles A. Stillings, the new public printer, called at the White House this morning and was closeted with President Roosevelt and Secretary Loeb for nearly an hour.

This is the first conference the President and his new Public Printer has had since the appointment was announced.

It is understood that the President was anxious to go over the question of administering the big printers' affairs with the new incumbent.

Mr. Stillings, just prior to his going to the White House, called on Acting Public Printer Ricketts.
